

Inguinal Canal Program Transcript

The inguinal ligament is formed by the aponeurosis of the external abdominal oblique muscle and runs from the anterior superior iliac spine to the pubic tubercle. Above the inguinal ligament is the inguinal canal, which connects the abdominal cavity with the superficial abdominal wall.