

Obturator Nerve Program Transcript

This is a diagram of the obturator nerve from the lumbar plexus. It, like the femoral nerve, arises from L2 to L4 spinal nerves. It also goes into the pelvis and then into the leg. However, a lesion of the spinal nerve or the obturator nerve in the pelvis or in the leg end up with the same results, affecting the adductors and the sensation to the medial thigh.